

IMPACT REPORT 2020

www.melanetwork.org

*potential

The Arab region is home to the youngest population in the world, over 100 million youth - and these young men and women have the potential to drive significant change and promote the UN Sustainable Development Goals. In order to do so, they will need the proper resources, support and opportunity to become changemakers in their communities.

United Nations Sustainable Development Report

Mela was established by a group of committed Arab and American business executives who identified the critical need for the establishment of a community of interconnected, high-potential Middle Eastern business leaders. Today, this non-profit leadership development network, established in 2010, accelerates personal and professional growth and decision-making across 14 Arab countries, fostering responsible and ethical leadership best practices. Mela is the Middle Eastern arm of a global network spanning North America (SIBF); Central Eurasia (CELA); and South East Asia (SEALA). Together, the global network extends across 46 countries, with approximately 2,000 network members.

When you join Mela or partner with Mela, you enable long-lasting, positive development for our region. You make it possible for executives to be exposed to best practices in leadership, to exhibit excellence in management and personal performance, and to get plugged into a global network of peers and professionals, your potential multiplies exponentially. And this is what drives progress - in business and in life across the MENA region.

MELA IMPACT.

The pandemic has forced us to debate and question all that we consider to be the norm. How do we attend to our basic needs? How do we socialize and communicate? How do we produce and consume? How do we innovate and prosper? And how do we govern? All these are big questions that require our collective effort to tackle. The answers lie in our ability to reimagine our future and create an environment that is sustainable, inclusive, and beautiful. Together in Mela, we pave the way to a sustainable Arab world.

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE.

When I took on the Chairmanship of Mela in 2020 I came in with a commitment to serving our membership; extending our outreach efforts to benefit the lives of every Mela member across our region; and taking our organization to the next level of excellence in leadership practice. Understanding that the past decade has not been an easy one for our region - filled with conflict and economic hardship - I could not have anticipated the turmoil that a new global crisis would bring, or that my plans for Mela's expansion would pivot away from our regular programs to new ones created to provide a lifeline for members with businesses in distress, critical aid to communities in need of financial assistance, and a strong hand to our families in Lebanon nearly brought to their knees.

Through our newly-established Business Connect Group, Community Outreach Committee, and Thought Leadership initiatives, our Network once again rose to the challenge, banded together and brought merciful relief to so many people this year. And I am, more than ever, proud and privileged to be in service to the Mela Network.

As we look to the future, we can look forward to more of the benefits this Network brings: more business and networking opportunities, more leadership development programs, and more community service. To my global network family: thank you for your trust; thank you for your engagement; and thank you for standing tall.

To my global network, we could not do it all without you. Thank you!

Living in a diverse region of different backgrounds, different countries and different ways of life, however bound by one language and one destiny, there are really very rare opportunities for the leaders of the Arab region to connect together in one place to make a difference to the region. Mela is the platform for youth from all around the Arab world to break down the barriers, get to know each other and exercise their leadership in an environment that is both enlightening and conducive to a positive change, and societal impact. Being part of Mela has been an opportunity for myself and all Mela members to network together, learn from each other, understand each other and connect to a wider global network to develop ourselves and our countries for a better region.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE.

At Mela, the greatest takeaways of 2020 can be summed up into three words: connection, content and comfort. One of the great silver linings was our virtual connection - bringing our global network online this year enabled 46 member nations to interact almost daily through webinars, online networking events, and the first virtual Global Network Summit. Our access to international speakers, coaches, mentors and each other created content that enriched the quiet hours, grew our professional skills and personal ability, and benefited our businesses. And as our friends in Lebanon wrestled with anxiety and loss, we were able to band together as a Network to bring them comfort in dark times. And across our chapters, Mela members pooled together to provide food, medical supplies, and financial aid to the less fortunate across our communities.

Despite the challenges, there have been so many happy milestones at Mela in 2020: we celebrated our first decade with the largest reunion in Mela history; welcomed an exceptional Mela 11 Masterclass; admitted our first international delegate from Azerbaijan; introduced new elements to our Masterclass curriculum to underline the importance of forgiveness, for bearance and empathy; laid the groundwork for a Youth Leadership program to bring the benefits of personal awareness to high-school students across the region; established a business continuity program to help our members power and grow their businesses; and enabled quick assistance through the Lebanon Relief Fund - the most successful collaboration in our Global Network's history.

There is no limit to the positive impact of our Network. And no limit to the talents of our Network members.

Thank you to everyone who shared their gifts this year.

ABOUT MELA.

OUR GUIDING PRINCIPALS.

PURPOSE.

Mela exists to build, connect and nurture leaders who think globally and seek to create a better future for the Middle East and the world.

VISION.

A Middle East filled with Mela alumni playing active roles in enabling positive change in the region and the world.

VALUES.

SUSTAINABLE GROWTH

Attracting the best leaders and inspiring them to take initiatives that strengthen the Mela Network. Creating a stimulating learning environment to connect, develop, nurture and grow leaders.

TRUST-BASED RELATIONSHIPS

Recognizing each other's accomplishments and inspiring value-added professional relationships. Building trustworthy and honest relationships with others. Understanding the ethical implications of our choices.

ACTIVE ENGAGEMENT

Committing to counseling, mentoring, and putting our uniqueness in the service of others. Helping others and asking for help when needed.

RESPECT

Encouraging people to discuss different views and opinions with respect and compassion because diversity generates innovation. Believing in the reliability and ability of others, and honoring them by exhibiting care, concern, or consideration for their needs, feelings and personal beliefs. Treating others as we would like to be treated.

MELA: A LIFE-CHANGING EXPERIENCE.

PILLARS.

The Masterclass.

The first step in becoming a member of Mela and the global network is to complete the annual Masterclass. Applicants to the Masterclass are interviewed throughout the year to ensure that each meet the Network's standards for personal and professional ethics and ability. Out of the hundreds of annual applicants to Mela from across the region, only 40 are admitted each year.

The Network.

Once the Masterclass is concluded, Mela members join a leadership network that offers the opportunity to learn, grow, and lead. The potential value is limitless and members are encouraged to seek out and take full advantage of membership privileges.

PRIVILEGES.

Leadership in Practice.

Each member is able to exercise leadership within Mela and access key roles where they put in practice the skills and the knowledge they acquired through the Network. The aim is to make the purposeful leadership style, championed at Mela, second nature to Network members.

Networking.

Each member has access to all members of Mela and its sister networks, knowing that the number of members keeps growing, thus offering limitless opportunities for members to connect with high-profile leaders facilitators, supporters, and peers for coaching, mentorship, guidance, opinion, and professional support.

Business Development.

Each member has the right to seek the implementation and / or expansion of business projects in partnership with other members throughout Mela and its sister networks.

Lifelong Learning.

Through access and participation in Mela and sister network activities, such as reunions and global summits, as well as in local chapter activities, members get precious and unique opportunities to grow and learn from peers and instructors but also from world-class speakers and influential leaders.

Dr. Iyad Masrouji

PALESTINE

Mela had a multidimensional impact on my life and professional career. Most importantly it has introduced me to outstanding leaders and personalities. I had the opportunity to learn from Leaders with diversified experiences and I often found myself humbled by the wisdom and thoughtful insights of our Mela leaders many of whom are younger but definitely more insightful. Through Mela, I have learned the essence of thoughtful giving.

Mela is a platform for learning, friendship and global outreach. It is a family of like minded people, who challenge your thinking, but are eager to support and provide positive input.

GIVING BACK TO MELA.

The growth and sustainability of Mela relies on the active engagement, commitment and noble volunteering of its members to bring its purpose to life and to make a difference to the lives and careers of members and the societies they live in.

Members engage in several ways through volunteering and participation in:

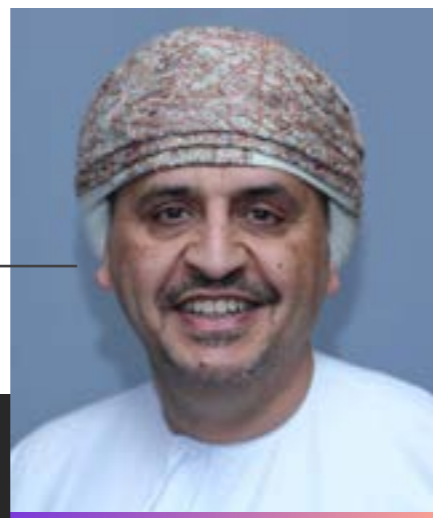

Network Activities.

Belonging to an international network is at the heart of Mela's value-added proposition and active member participation in Network and sister networks activities. Engagement is necessary for a mutually optimized experience. Members are encouraged to take part in the Global Network Summit that is organized each year in one of the sister networks, as well as activities organized by Mela, CELA, SELA and SIBF networks, such as summits and reunions, and pre and post-reunions, among others.

Local Chapter Activities.

At the volunteering level, Mela members volunteer to any or more of the following key roles such as Board Member, Network Committee President, Network Committee Member, Network Masterclass Facilitator, Chapter President, Chapter Committee President, Chapter Committee Member, Event Organization, Event Hosting, and Network Member (Mela, CELA, SEALA, SIBF) Hosting.

I have been to a number of leadership development courses before. I realized that Mela was better in every way from day one. The quality of the speakers was top notch, the way the topics were covered was designed to stick in your mind forever, the participants were the cream of the crop, but more importantly you feel that everyone is there with the sole purpose of helping YOU be the best you can be. As a result, you establish strong, probably life-lasting bonds with not only the instructors, but even more so with the participants. I now have friends all over the Arab world, some I feel closer to me than people I've known all my life. Mela is the best investment you can make not only for your career but for your entire life.

A NETWORK FOR LIFELONG LEARNING.

All activities following the 10-day Masterclass serve to enhance the life-learning aspirations of the networks members. Whether learning from speakers in global, regional or local events, or from facilitators, fellow members, or local leaders, learning is ongoing and ensures the growth of members both at a personal and professional level.

Members are encouraged to organize and participate in different types of activities, in addition to the network's activities, of Global Summits, and Country Reunions. These activities include but are not limited to:

Meet a Leader.

Visits to local leaders at their places of work to get acquainted with what they do from a strategic perspective to excel in their roles, and with what they have to share about their successes, failures and challenges.

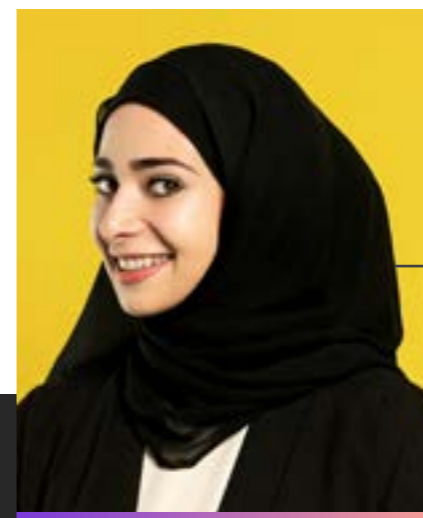

Meet a Fellow Member.

Visits to Mela members at their places of work to get acquainted with their leadership style and how they have implemented lessons from Mela in their day-to-day management tasks, at work and at home.

Network Seminars.

Year-round seminars and webinars hosted by Mela and its sister networks that cover a range of leadership topics and often feature network member speakers, trainers and coaches. This consists of seminars or webinars that Mela or any sister network organizes to cover a leadership topic.

The leadership program in Mela helped me learn a lot about myself. I got to learn from inspiring mentors like Jim Crupi, Michael Kouly and Victor Antonio as well as the great quality of people in the program that were carefully selected. I also built a great network that I can exchange ideas with and learn from whenever I need support.

MELA MASTERCLASS.

The Mela Masterclass is an intensive 10-day immersion leadership program that inspires purpose, authenticity, character and values. This leadership bootcamp brings together 40 top executives from across the MENA region with international faculty and facilitators for an experiential journey that allows them to expand their leadership capacity; management skills; empathy; professional network; and contributions to their communities. The result: better management, successful professional and personal relations, community development. Upon successful completion of the Mela Masterclass, participants then have access to lifetime membership in the Mela Network and its sister networks spanning 46 countries across North America, Central Eurasia and South East Asia; in addition to learning and networking cultural programs throughout each year. The Mela Masterclass is a tiered program, each day adding to the next. It includes learning sessions which alternate with breakout groups facilitated by experienced business people and seasoned practitioners from around the world.

The Masterclass focuses on the real-life applications of leadership skills and established a gateway for members to build a global profile.

The year started on a high note at the Dead Sea in Jordan with another exceptional Masterclass that brought a new cohort of members. And the 2020 Reunion saw the largest gathering of Mela and sister network members of any event in Mela history.

Soon after the Mela Reunion in March 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic spread mercilessly creating a state of shock and fear. During this time Mela's strong values kept playing in my head: turn difficult times into opportunities, empty your cup, find your purpose, go down the path, and lead by example. Since March 2020, the research team I lead at Biolab managed to decipher the full genetic code of more than 600 COVID-19 viruses from Jordan. These unprecedented efforts helped the country better understand the microscopic enemy, and to then take active and informed decisions to fight the pandemic during the past year.

I am blessed to be a Mela member, looking into the start of this journey from where I am standing now - starting from my Masterclass experience in 2019 and everything since - I learned a lot and am blessed to have a safety net of unique people around me from all around the world. We were all tested in 2020, our humanity and purpose in life as well the maturity of our purpose was put to the test, and for me, Mela and global network are a major part of my life. It's a continuous journey of growth, learning and giving back.

BOARD MEMBERS.

NETWORK & CLASS REPRESENTATIVES SELECTION PROCESS.

Nominees to the Mela Board of Directors are elected by the Mela membership, in coordination with the Mela Board of Directors. The Board of Directors provides the guidance that enables the organization's expansion and growth. It meets on a quarterly basis - once in person at the end of the annual Masterclass, and three times virtually. Board members also serve in various capacities - as faculty, as committee heads, recruiters and fundraisers.

There are two categories of members' representation on the Board, either as Network Representative, or as Class Representative. Network representatives are members who have been in the Network for more than 2 years and who have provided volunteering services through their contributions either as Chapter Presidents, or Committee Members or active and engaged members in activities Mela undertakes. The second category of Mela members representation is the Class one, whereby each Masterclass participants nominate one of the class participants to represent them on the Board.

It is worth noting that nominations to these roles are subject to a strict selection process and criteria to ensure proper corporate governance.

Mela encourages gender balance and country representation but is more interested in ensuring quality, character, and commitment to the network - the representative is expected to contribute to the growth of Mela.

2020 MILESTONES.

COVID-19 RELIEF COMMITTEES.

In 2020, despite all the disappointment and the difficulties, Mela saw its highest level of membership engagement: the greatest number of committees, task forces and new programs through which Mela's members rose to the challenge during the global crisis, responded fast, and made change. At the onset of the global crisis, we put our regular work aside at Mela and pivoted to create a new series of relief initiatives, and along with an army of Mela volunteers we:

- responded to the needs across our membership - launching the Business Continuity Group to help our members businesses survive and thrive;
- responded to the needs across our countries so Mela launched the Community Outreach Drive; and raised funds supporting medical relief, food for the poverty stricken, and funds for laborers out of work, among other community development initiatives;
- launched the Thought Leadership program - to keep our growth and development at the forefront, to keep us meeting and networking;

- and finally Mela reached out to offer support to our sponsors and partners to offer them the benefits of our global network coaching programs and cover their attendance at the 2020 Global Network Summit for their teams and executives.

BUSINESS CONTINUITY.

This year an outstanding majority of Mela members indicated their desire for the Network to provide them with greater business opportunities, along with leadership learning and programs. For this reason, the Business Continuity programs were launched to bring relief and support to the business owners across the Mela Network to help them navigate their way through the global crisis of 2020. The Business Continuity programs, now known as Business Connect, provided mentoring and coaching by senior-level executives from across the world; roundtable discussions and workshops on subjects including HR management and staffing, financing startups, cost-analyses and more; and a series of business showcases introducing Mela's members to the global network to promote business opportunities and continued success. As Mela looks towards its second decade, it will continue to expand its existing business programs to bring even more opportunity and cross-network collaboration.

I have always counted Mela on top of the blessings in my life, but Covid-19 and its challenges made it crystal clear what role Mela plays in my life. In March 2020, I jumped to the occasion with Yasmine El-Hini from Egypt who initiated all the Covid-19 initiatives, and Rouba Taouk - Lebanon, Hamad Timami - Oman and Nahla El Banhawy - Egypt to support the Chairman and Executive Director in a Crisis Management Taskforce to navigate the global pandemic challenges. Pulling together volunteers for all three initiatives that resulted from these meetings, namely the Business Continuity Taskforce, the Thought Leadership Taskforce, and the Community Outreach one was one of the most important milestones of my life. Seeing a whole network advance and prosper by taking a leadership role needed is a rewarding experience like no other. Then came the August 4 blast in Lebanon and working on the relief efforts. Both experiences and what resulted from them, made me realize that Mela is not only a network, but Mela is part of who I am today as a leader always thriving to make a difference to others.

Covid-19 challenges made us realize how lucky we were to have Mela in our lives. Business Continuity was an idea that came up during these challenging times, where 20 Mela members pulled up their strength, time and effort to support other members' businesses. Today, and after a year of work, we see the need and the potential that this group is bringing to the whole network with deep cross collaborations.

Mela gave me the first experience of knowing myself and in diving deep into who I am, allowing me to transform from within. The 10-day journey was an awakening for me. In my heart, I carry the Mela torch that is urging me to give back to the young generations of leaders in the hope that they will be impacted by the Mela experience as I have been.

MANUAL COMMITTEE.

As Mela promotes the advancement of its members, it also requires it of itself and is in an ongoing process of self-improvement. For this reason, the Manual Committee was established to assess the existing processes and procedures that govern the organization and propose areas of improvement. With a team of volunteer members and Board, the Manual Committee have created the first operational manual for Mela containing pertinent information related to the ways Mela conducts its affairs, the duties of its leadership and the responsibilities and benefits of its members. Many contributed to this major milestone in Mela's strategy to articulate its vision in this coming decade.

Mela's Manual Committee was headed by Dr. Iyad Masrouji, Mela Chair 2022 - 2024, and co-chaired by Moataz Mukhaimer, Jordan Chapter President 2020-2022, Rouba Taouk, Network Representative Board Member 2019-2021 and Hamad Timami Network Representative Board Member 2020-2022.

The work was meticulously reviewed by the Board Manual Committee, that included Jim Crupi, Mela Founder, Yousuf Al Yousuf, Mela Chair 2020 -2022, and Khalid Al Mana, Mela Chair 2018-2020. The committee's work could not be possible without the support of all the volunteer members who helped either in the compilation, writing and reviewing.

Special thanks to all the volunteers and to Board members Michael Kouly and Dr. Amer Al Rawas.

Committing to a Network Committee is hard work that many underestimate in terms of both load and value. If you become a Network Committee member, you should expect to be solicited on a daily, weekly, and monthly basis depending on the project you have at hand. You should be aware that Mela's progress depends on the feedback you give and that refraining from providing input is so disappointing for other Committee members. But here is the good news: all this hard work helps you grow and shine both personally and professionally. This is really an experience that you should seek and enjoy. When I think of how much I learned as the Co-Head of the Communications and Engagement Committee and the Lead Writer of the Manual Committee, I feel amazed by how rewarding was all the hard work!

I continuously remind myself: there is no learning without studying. No knowing without learning. No empathy without vulnerability. No alliquent without preparation. No exact without calculation. No profound without reflection. No purpose without understanding self and no leadership without impact. Mela has impacted me on those fronts.

I was privileged to work on two important initiatives for Mela in 2020: the Mela Manual and the Focus Groups exercise to define strategic priorities. The Mela Manual initiative was the result of several meetings to define what needs to be done to take the network to the next level. Creating the manual, which includes bylaws, policies, procedures, and code of ethics, has been an ambitious collaborative effort. The main team under the supervision of Dr. Iyad Masrouji volunteered many hours to discuss, write, edit, and rewrite a manual that will be used by all stakeholders to establish clear and structured guidelines for our beloved network. The Focus Groups exercise aimed to capture the main definitions and priorities of Mela through the eyes of our members and Board. Once again, many amazing members volunteered their time to structure the exercise, moderate, analyze, and participate in the initiative. It was eye-opening to witness the passion and dedication of all participants to ensure the success of Mela. On a personal note, working on those initiatives gave me the opportunity to learn from amazing people who I am proud to call my friends. It is beyond thrilling to be in the company of such extraordinary leaders who thrive through making others shine. It is without a doubt one of the best experiences I have gone through on both a professional and personal level.

FOCUS GROUPS TASK FORCE.

As part of Mela's ongoing emphasis to respond to the needs of its membership, a focus groups exercise was designed to capture the main purpose and benefits of Mela through the eyes of Mela's members and Board. In 2020, the task force conducted a focus group exercise with a representative sample of Mela stakeholders. The exercise focused on Mela's identity, strategy, strengths and challenges, and recruitment. The task force then issued a report with findings and presented it to the network. The findings provide clear indications to assist with setting the strategy for Mela for the next decade, and include:

- Pinpointing a clear desire from members to concentrate on business enablement.
- Shedding light on what Mela needs to look for in future recruits.
- Highlighting the Masterclass as the best Mela experience.
- Underlining that the bond between members is what makes the network unique.

10 years ago, when I joined the very first Master Class, I expected it to be a regular academic course. To my surprise, Mela turned out to be a life changing experience. After 10 years, the network still adds to all aspects of my life. Simply put, Mela is a continuous learning platform and a community of extraordinary people that become friends and family for life.

MELA RELIEF FUND FOR LEBANON: DONORS.

In 2020, Lebanon witnessed the most severe economic crisis in its history, with up to 80% currency devaluation, bank capital controls that make access to personal funds limited, and severe social and political instability. The August 4 explosion created the need for immediate assistance to Mela Lebanon Chapter members. A global campaign was initiated to collect the funds necessary to bring relief and support to all affected members. The fund raised an excess of $80,000. Mela extends sincerest thanks to everyone who contributed in support of Mela Lebanon.

Mela had a really positive impact on my life in 2020. It was a severely bad year – for so many reasons: the economic crisis, the Coronavirus pandemic and, above all, the horrific Beirut Port explosion. Mela provided friends and support. Mela's members stood by my side and checked on me to make sure I was safe after the explosion. I had no internet connection then, but what a comfort it was when I was reconnected to see all the messages and calls. The Mela solidarity touched me above all. When the extended Mela family from SIBF, CELA and SEALA sent me a financial gift to help me repair the damages to my home, I was beyond grateful. Thank you Mela, I am proud to be one of yours.

THE CHAIRMAN'S AWARDS.

For the second year in a row, the Chairman's Awards were celebrated during the Masterclass to acknowledge Mela members and network associates with outstanding achievement across work performance, leadership example and commitment to their communities and our network. The Chairman's Awards celebrate members' wonderful and distinguished contributions to the network and the region.

The nominations for the award recipients came from members across the Mela network to applaud successful Mela members with accomplishments that have impacted their fields, their lives, and the world around them.

The final selection is made by the Chairpersons' Committee, which is composed of all former and current regional Mela Chairpersons, namely Meisa Batayneh, Michael Kouly, Nabil Al Yousuf, Dr. Amer Al Rawas, Khalid Al Mana and Yousuf Al Yousuf.

The Chairman's Award for Remarkable Leadership.

Awarded to an individual from the Mela region or an organization exhibiting exceptional impact on their community through leadership, service, inspiring best practice, and enabling development and opportunity for Mela and its members.

The Chairman's Award for Business Impact.

Awarded to the Mela member who has exhibited exceptional success in their work environment, becoming a role model and distinguished innovator with celebrated impact.

The Chairman's Award for Outstanding Service.

Awarded to the Mela member who best embodies the spirit of Mela and its values and exhibits an exceptional commitment towards the development of the organization through volunteering, participation and positive influence.

The Chairman's Award for Entrepreneurship Excellence.

Awarded to the Mela member change-maker behind the establishment of a forward-thinking business that not only powers opportunity, but provides solutions to challenges facing their society.

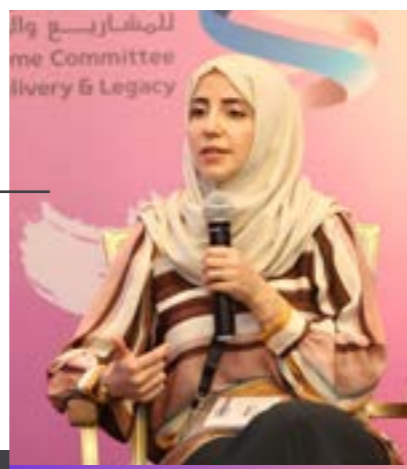

The Chairman's Award for Remarkable Leadership.

Andrew Summers, SIBF member and Mela Founder - for his exceptional leadership and impact on Mela.

Winner of The Chairman's Award for Business Impact.

Ahmed Yehia, Mela 7 | EGYPT
 Founder, Eco Group

You start your journey in Mela thinking it's just another group or network, but it turns out to be a family! This is how I experienced Mela. I gave Mela time, attention, effort and dedication, and it gave me recognition, roles as lecturer and facilitator, business connections, and most importantly it gave me a family to belong to! Thank you my Mela family.

Founder, Eco Group

- Quit corporate life to pursue his passion and start his own new business in Ecotourism
- Built his first Ecolodge: Eco Nubia in Aswan, Egypt
- Awarded first place by Egypt Minister of Tourism among applicants from 107 countries

My relationship with Mela started in 2011. Making the decision to attend the program back then was huge! I was to be a member of the first cohort with no insights on what this 10-day academy would lead to. That leap of faith has put me on a journey that included being elected to serve as a board member, heading the Mela Lebanon Chapter, and a continuous process of engagement, learning growth - networking with a distinguished group of leaders from different parts of the world each inspiring in their own way.

"Stop Shrinking To Fit Places You've Outgrown"

This was one of my favorite takeaways from Mela Masterclass. Mela has changed my life, on a personal and professional basis. Mela taught me how to let go of what was no longer serving me and put me on the journey of understanding the nature of my dream. On a professional level, I have met through Mela people who have become mentors and in some cases business partners of mine. Mela even facilitated the expansion of our business to Jordan.

Seeking advice is one of the most powerful habits I developed through my Mela experience. In 2014, I was facing a specific management challenge at work that had consumed most of my energy and cluttered my thought process, making it difficult for me to stay focused on my priorities. A few email exchanges later with a trusted network member helped me reset my perspective and regain the mental clarity I needed to craft a roadmap to get to where I wanted. A few months later, I received the delightful news from my CEO that I got selected for the executive management role that I had been aspiring to secure. Since then, seeking advice from trusted peers became a key element in my decision making process, and the network members are an excellent place to start!

OMAN

It was 2013 the Mela Masterclass first came to our beautiful city of Muscat. We were surrounded by the Omani Alhajer mountains representing the history and strength of the Omani culture. It was that year that I met myself for the first time. Mela taught me that true leadership comes from inside - from a place where we can reflect and believe that you can make a difference for others, where life's purpose is a journey to discover how you can use your talents to serve your dreams. Through Mela, I met people with shared values and high goals to make difference in their communities and together we learned to listen and share our experiences. No roles and no titles only the true self of who we really are. Now we are family from all over the world that care and love each other. We always look forward to meeting and catch up on the progress of our dreams. I truly believe this was one of the best things that ever happened to me, and I always look forward to learn more from Mela family.

Taking part in Mela was for me a life changing experience within my career development, being at a crossroads at the time, I went to Mela with an open mind no set expectations and within that 2-week period the training, eye-opening sessions, friendships forged were astounding. That was 10 years ago and till today, my Mela family is a constant source of inspiration, support, mentorship, and guidance. Mela isn't a typical training program it brings together leaders, innovators, communicators, gurus in their fields and has built the biggest network of like-minded business innovators, and leaders across all platforms with an amazing focus on self and community development.

Thank you my Mela family and friends.

2020 was a cutoff line. Despite all the tough circumstances, this year had some highlights for me to be grateful! Everything can be changed, accepted, absorbed, and used for a better cause when the correct mindset is in place: The lockdown was the best practice for me to make value of time. Also, I had the chance to give back to the Mela Network what this network has offered to me, whether through volunteering at the Masterclass or joining the pool of Chapter presidents. Finally, not to forget the life lesson of the Beirut explosion experience: What doesn't kill you, makes you stronger!

Being part of Mela was a blessing, not only did I meet amazing people from all around the world, but also, the timing was perfect for me: right before an extreme lockdown for the CoronaVirus pandemic. However, coming back from Mela at this time, gave me strength to go on and move my business online in a very efficient way. This would not have been that smooth and successful if I didn't have the motivation, positivity and the supportive network. I learned to value differences and people from various backgrounds, and can safely say: I have won friends for life. Grateful to Mela and those who encouraged me to join.

I attended many technical and management courses in the past but not a Leadership program, the program was enriched with self-discovery and group discussions which is very interesting and different compared to the conventional lectures. The biggest benefit is discovering myself, character strength, working style and preferences. I enjoyed discussing, interacting and building a network with follow participants, speakers and facilitators from Mela including Alumni members. Participating in group projects helped me in practicing daily challenging roles such as negotiations, team work and crucial conversations. Overall it was a fantastic experience focusing on self-development.

As the first global member Mela, I have been exposed not only to leadership skills but also to unique opportunities to explore myself and grow. Mela makes you feel surrounded by a family of like minded people. This becomes a medium and a platform through which you build the strongest bonds with diverse culture, leaders and the strong values of the Middle East.

Mela was an eye-opening, inspiring and enriching experience. It is truly a phenomenal program. Throughout the 10 days, I learned and continued to discover aspects about myself and people around me that helped me in making better decisions, as well as how to deal with challenges and capitalize on my uniqueness. The tools and insights I acquired from the distinctive approach that the program employed were impeccable and valuable in my personal and professional life. The curriculum not only had classroom time, smaller group discussions, extensive leadership activities and practical exercises conducted by successful business leaders, but also customized sessions that addressed my specific needs and difficulties, which I have never received from any other program I've been a part of.
